EXTRACT FROM THE BILBAO FINAL DECLARATION:

It is time to combine our forces to open the door to a new era, a path towards a new economic, social and ecological model, new responses to emancipation and democratic progress to face the big challenges of mankind.

This is the reason why we propose:

The reordering of the immense wealth created in Europe towards a new model of social and ecological development

We defend the right to a decent job for all with full employment, with quality working conditions, sufficient salaries, security, social protection, without discrimination, with equality between men and women.

We propose that the wealth and power of the countries, serve to favour the development of a dignified life without discrimination of gender, expression and sexual or affective identity.

We propose to establish new criteria on how to spend money in Europe in favour of a transformation of the productive structures and for a new social and ecological development model based on a Framework Convention that proposes a New Economic and Productive Model. Which is why we put forward the intent to open a debate on the creation of a European financial, fiscal and budgetary COP similar to the COP on climate change.

To defend and promote gender equality

We are convinced that there will be no real democracy while women do not live free, without violence, and in equality of rights that men. For this reason, the fight against patriarchy is fundamental for the construction of a new project of society that puts the value of people's lives above the benefit of the markets.

The equitable distribution of productive and reproductive work is fundamental for the recognition of social and labour rights that prevent all types of exploitation of women. We set out to elaborate a protocol for gender equality that assumes the full incorporation of women into the world of work, and of men into care work, and which aims at overcoming inequalities and ensuring gender equality in all spheres of life.

Peace and collective security

We propose to organize citizen debates throughout Europe to promote the idea of a pan-European conference for peace and collective security. It will allow to bring together people across the continent to reject the course towards war in favour of a peaceful and secure world!

It should permit binding agreements with a single standard on asylum and protection of international law by means of a migration policy based on solidarity and responsibility, guaranteeing secure rescue paths for the Mediterranean.

Democracy and respect for popular sovereignty.

The main rationale defining the European Union is the weakness of democracy in its functioning. The neoliberal orientation of its treaties is imposed without the consent of the people, and sometimes against their will. What dominates in Europe is not cooperation, both – what pertains as well as what doesn't pertain to the European Union, is not cooperation but rather competition and authoritarianism.

Our goal is to fight for a Europe that is a fully cooperative, solidary, equal and socially advanced democracy. We call for empowering popular sovereignty by launching a new charter for sovereign democracy in Europe.
